Governor BACKS QUABBIN 'EXPOSE'

As federal agents probed deeper into awarding of contracts and bonds on the $26,000,000 Quabbin Reservoir project, Governor Saltonstall today pledged his full co-operation in the investigations.

Two agents are conducting the inquiry at the request of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes and in the event irregularities are found, it is expected $12,000,000 in federal grants for the project will be cancelled.

At the same time, Elmer C. Nelson, gubernatorial secretary, issued the following statement in behalf of the governor:

"The governor is determined that every state department having any dealings with federal grants shall abide strictly by the rules laid down by federal regulations. The federal government can expect the fullest co-operation from the governor's office in checking any reported irregularities."

Eugene C. Holliman, chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission, dismissed the probe as "routine" and said he was satisfied that there had been no irregularity in the matter of contracts for the water supply division of the Metropolitan District Commission.

CONTRACTS LET

Contracts have already been let for the waterworks, including the Quabbin reservoir and works in northern Massachusetts.

Former Gov. Charles F. Hurley was questioned by the federal agents shortly before he left for Ireland, and others interrogated included members of his secretariat staff and those of Gov. Saltonstall, as well as leaders in both parties.

It was learned the report of the agents is to be submitted to F. N. Hogan in New York, supervising investigator for Region No. 1 of the FWA, which includes the New England territory.

SIGN AFFIDAVITS

Thus far it is known the investigators have questioned more than 20 individuals, some of whom have signed affidavits.

Meanwhile, the governor pushed his plans for ouster proceedings against Public Works Commissioner William F. Callahan, scheduled to begin at noon Monday.

Callahan declined to comment on plans he is making in defending 14 charges brought against him by the governor.

Nab 'Roof-top Tarzan'

Warcry Calls Cambridge Cops

An alleged "rooftop Tarzan," clad only in shoes and underclothing, was captured by Cambridge police today after a wild chase and scuffle three stories above the street.

The seized man, Charles McIsaac, 23, of Pearl Terrace, Cambridge, was shouting his Tarzan warcry and was ripping boards and wire with his bare hands, arresting officers said.

He was taken to Cambridge City Hospital where doctors treated him for deep lacerations of both legs and right wrist and arm.

He was then booked at police headquarters on a charge of drunkenness and was taken to East Cambridge district court. Additional charge of disturbing the peace was brought in court and a hearing was set for July 12.

Capture of the "wild man of the rooftops" came after residents of the Pearl Terrace neighborhood had complained that young McIsaac appeared to be trying to tear down the apartment house and was on a break-neck rampage, clambering from roof to roof.

Youth Attacks Girl He Kidnaps in Auto

NORTHAMPTON, July 8—Kidnaped and held for three and a half hours by an unidentified youth, a 21-year-old Northampton girl was beaten and attacked today.

CHANCE—Leila Ernst, Boston's own glamour girl, will be another of these scintillating society belles to join the film ranks. She'll go to New York on Monday for a Paramount film test. Perhaps, who knows, Leila will some day be a great star, for she has shown definite acting ability in her debut at the Bass Rocks theater. Here she is shown with her brother.

BOSTON BLONDE DEB ACCEPTS BID BY SCREEN

Hollywood's lure has proved too strong for Leila Ernst, beautiful blonde debutante, known in her own set as one of Boston society's glamor girls.

After spending a lot of time wondering about a Paramount Pictures Corporation offer of a screen test, she has decided to accept it. "I am going to New York on Monday," she said. The screen test is scheduled to be held in Paramount's studio Tuesday.

The movie offer came to the Boston society girl at the Bass Rock summer theater, Gloucester, where she is appearing with Orson Welles' Mercury Theater players in "Night Must Fall." According to theater folk, Leila has real acting ability in addition to beauty of face and form—not to mention a pair of what Winchell would indicate like this! As a matter of fact, Leila's! are said to challenge the streamlined underpinning of Marlene Dietrich.

"I was undecided at first," Leila said. "You see, I can't believe that I am good enough for Hollywood right now. And I know that. I need the sort of preparation that summer theater can give me."

"The only reason I have decided to take the test now is that I have everything to win and nothing to lose."

"I intend to come back loaded. I'll play my part with Mary Brian in 'French Without Tears.'"

Leila revealed that when she was only a little girl her hobby was collecting pictures of movie stars—but she never dreamed she would be playing on the same stage with them.

"I'm serious about a career and I want to start from the ground up. I don't want to be just another flash in the pan."

"I'm working like a dog," confessed Leila, "but I love every minute of it. Between performances I do everything from scrubbing floors to shopping around antique stores for 'props' we need."

Miss Jane Sisco, sobbed as she told police and relatives that she was kidnaped by a khaki-clad young man who slipped behind the wheel of a parked automobile in which she was sitting alone while other members of her party were eating in a nearby diner.

The youth drove her to a lonely spot in Hadley and kept her there by force and threats until dawn, Miss Sisco said.

Near collapse after her ordeal, she was finally driven near her home by her captor, after he had beaten and attacked her, she told police.

She said the youth threw the auto ignition key away, abandoning the car near her house.

When the youth jumped into the machine, outside the diner, the engine was running, having been left so because the battery was low, according to Miss Sisco.

Nab Two in Crash After Girl Attack

Hardly had a 23-year-old Boston bride sobbed a story to State police that she had been attacked by two Greater Boston men when the accused pair were arrested by troopers as an automobile crashed on a curve in Ashland today.

Both men, William T. Chandonit, 28, of Yelbin terrace, Waltham, and Spencer Gundersen, 23, of Stowe road, Mattapan, faced charges of assault and battery in Framingham court.

In addition, a more serious charge was brought against Chandonit, a Waltham call fireman.

The accuser of the two was Mrs. Esther Rogan, 23, of Tremont street, South End.

According to Sergeant John Barnicle of the Framingham State police barracks, the girl told of meeting the two men in a Harrison avenue cafe. She accepted their offer

'VALENTINO FACE' TRAPS YOUTH, 3 PALS IN HOLDUPS

Three Revere men and a youth from Everett who bears a striking resemblance to the late Rudolph Valentino and described by a woman holdup victim as the "handsomest" man she had ever seen were taken to Chelsea court by Revere police today on charges of armed robbery.

The quartet was chosen from a group of six men arrested by Revere officers as alleged members of a gang which police say have staged nearly 25 North Shore robberies since January.

First arrest was made by Special Officers Luke Church and Michael J. Foley after a victim said he spotted the man resembling the famous movie sheik in a crowd of Revere Beach bathers.

Later the man was arrested in Everett, and within two hours four more men were in custody. Police said a blonde girl companion of the gang is being watched and may be arrested later.

Under the glare of brilliant spotlights the youths were paraded back and forth during a two-hour lineup at Revere police station. Twelve victims of auto kidnap-robberies, drug store holdups and similar crimes in cities north of Boston allegedly identified four of the six men.

The four youths were held for further questioning and appearance in Chelsea court today.

Another youth, Marino Lepore, 20, of Mountain ave. Revere, already has been arraigned in court on two counts of armed robbery and is being held in $20,000 bail. Two other men in the lineup passed the close scrutiny of police and holdup victims from nearly a score of communities without being identified and will be released today, Lieut. Cornelius Cronin announced.

Fear Kidnaping Of Child Actors

HOLLYWOOD, July 8 (INS)—Mrs. C. W. Standish, a widow, reported to police today that her two children, Penny, 12, and her brother Schuyler, 10, both motion picture extras, have been missing since early last evening.

They disappeared while Mrs. Standish was taking a nap after dinner, she said. She expressed fears that the children may have been kidnaped.

Police teletype and radio broadcasts were sent out to cities in southern California reporting the children were missing.

Dread Disease Claims Baby

NEW YORK, July 8 (INS)—

Medical science won a negative triumph when Baby Stephen Geison died, one day short of five months old. Science had predicted he would die; that it was just a question of time.

Baby Geison was born suffering with dread Oppenheim's disease, of which medical science up to today had records of but 150 cases. Little Stephen was No. 151.

Never has a victim recovered. Science said so a month ago, when the child's frantic parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Geison, broadcast through the press an appeal for help.

Thousands of men and women throughout the United States and Canada wrote letters of suggestions to the unhappy young parents, but the doctors shook their heads.

"It's no use," they said. "Nothing can be done. Just a matter of time."

Oppenheim's disease was first isolated by a physician of that name in 1901. Little Stephen's arms and legs were paralyzed from birth. He could breathe only through his diaphragm. He was doomed from the beginning.

But Geison and his pretty little wife, desperately poor, hoped against hope. One of New York's leading physicians removed the baby to one of the city's best hospitals. And there he died.

WPA STRIKERS FACE U. S. PROSECUTION

Only 202 Bay State Workers Walk Out

While WPA workers in New England generally treated with indifference the nation-wide strike over sub-union wages and longer hours, official threat was made today to prosecute on felony charges all persons who interfere with WPA projects.

The vast majority of New England workers remained on the job as protest walkouts by skilled craftsmen spread in other sections of the nation.

Simultaneously, under strong pressure from AFL leaders, supported by rival CIO chieftains in a united labor front, a movement developed among some members of Congress to revise the new relief act and restore prevailing union wage standards.

ASKS LEGAL OPINION

AFL officials estimated 100,000 WPA workers over the nation had been made idle by the mass protests against extension of their work month to 130 hours. The increase, with no wage rise to compensate for it, reduced the pay of skilled workmen from a $1.60-$2 an hour to 65-70 cents.

WPA officials differed with union leaders on the extent of the strike, but in Washington, Col. F. C. Harrington, works projects commissioner, said the work stoppage was "growing, but not very rapidly."

The threat of federal prosecution was voiced in New York city by Local Administrator Col. Brehon Somervell, who said he had asked U. S. Attorney John T. Cahill for an interpretation of Section 28 of the Federal Relief Act.

That section makes it a felony to deprive relief workers of their benefits by "fraud, force, threat, intimidation or boycott." The maximum penalty is a $2000 fine, two years in prison, or both.

Refusing to recognize the work stoppage as a strike, he described the situation as "incomprehensible."

"You can't strike against relief," he said. "It's fantastic."

202 BAY STATE IDLE

Col. John J. McDonough, listing 202 as "idle" in this state, said he had been assured by business agents for construction groups that the men would be directed to return to work Monday.

Meanwhile, business agents for all Bay State building trades unions had been instructed to tell their men that any strike pending outcome of the Washington conference, and action of the state executive council on request of the Boston council for a special convention July 15, would be "unsanctioned."

U. S. Sends Byrd to Get Polar Area

WASHINGTON, July 8 (INS)—Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd proposed today to head a government-financed expedition into the Antarctic regions this fall to substantiate American claims to vast areas of land at the South Pole.

Byrd, veteran of expeditions to both North and South Poles, plans to leave the first part of October with three ships. He will set up three bases with 22 men and an airplane at each, one of which will be in Little America, with the idea that the personnel remain there for a year—or from January to January.

Decision to have Admiral Byrd head the expedition was reached at a White House conference yesterday attended by officials of interested government departments.

In many respects, Byrd's forthcoming return to the Antarctic will be in the nature of a race against Nazi Germany, which claimed 250,000 square miles last year, and other nations eyeing the icy regions, which are rich in coal and other mineral deposits.

Officials pointed out that the United States in the past has laid claims which it did not substantiate to its later regret. Greenland was one piece of territory thus lost, while last year there was some controversy about various islands in the Pacific.

POLES SEEK NAZI PARLEY, HALT BRITAIN'S WARNING

LONDON, July 8 (INS)—Strong indications that Poland hopes to avert a conflict with the Reich which might precipitate a general European war, by settling the Danzig dispute through negotiation with Chancellor Hitler, came tonight from authoritative diplomatic quarters.

At the same time, however, the London Daily Telegraph reported from Danzig that Nazi military preparations within the free city continue with machine guns being mounted in houses in anticipation of street fighting.

The newspaper also stated 20 young Danzigers were arrested for refusing to answer summons to serve in the free corps.

A request by the Warsaw government to withhold the projected declaration of British policy regarding the Danzig crisis in which Britain makes it clear to Hitler that unilateral attempts to disturb the status quo in the free city by "internal or external" means will mean immediate British intervention to preserve Polish integrity, caused further postponement of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's announced statement to the House of Commons.

The free city must stay inside the Polish customs area. Polish rights must not be at the mercy of any power. The Polish minority's national individuality must be respected. While Poland, regarding the free city, is not prepared to accept the alleged Nazi militarization of the port, the semi-official Gazeta Polska today warned that Poland must remain on guard against the possibility of a German push there.

Poland Talks Peace, But Fears 'Putsch'

WARSAW, July 8 (GNS)—In what may be a bid for peaceful negotiations with Germany, official quarters today set forth Poland's minimum requirements regarding Danzig as follows:

Danzig must remain an entity outside Germany. The free city must stay inside the Polish customs area. Polish rights must not be at the mercy of any power.

The Polish minority's national individuality must be respected.

Declares British Must Fight All 'Aggressors'

LONDON, July 8 (AP)—Earl De La Warr, president of the board of education, said today Britain's "only possible course" was to stand by the smaller nations she has guaranteed and to make it clear she is "prepared to fight any and every aggressor however indirect may be the method of aggression."

He was the first cabinet minister to say that Britain was ready to go beyond the letter of her pledges and resist "indirect aggression" as well as the actual use of military force.

His statement was considered significant in view of the widespread belief in Britain that any action to incorporate the Free City of Danzig into the German Reich would come from within the city.

Lie Detector Test Faces Suspect Held As 'Torso' Slayer

CLEVELAND, July 8 (AP)—Authorities ordered a lie detector test for Frank Dolazel today in an effort to close some loopholes in his announced confession to the slaying of No. 3 of Cleveland's 12 "torso murder" victims.

"We're a long way from a case that will stick in court," commented Detective Harry Brown. "We're far from satisfied with his signed confession," supplemented Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell. "We want an air-tight story and we're going to question Dolazel on every angle."

He quoted Dolazel as saying he hacked off the head of Mrs. Florence Polillo, 42, dismembered her body and threw the head and limbs into Lake Erie. Dolazel later said he did not throw these parts into the lake, and O'Donnell described

SLEUTH'S BAD GUESS BREAKS TORSO CASE

CLEVELAND, July 8 (AP)—Frank Dolazel, a torso murder suspect, was in custody today because a detective's hunch was wrong.

More than a year ago, Lawrence Lyons had an idea he could solve the mystery of the 12 headless dead.

Lyons, for many years a private investigator, believed:

"That all the murders were committed in the same place by the same man or group of men.

That a place where 12 persons could be killed without discovery and the bodies hidden for days must be a very peculiar place.

That the building must be sound-proof, must be easily cleaned, must have storage facilities, probably refrigeration.

SPENT MONTHS IN 'BELT'

So he spent several months examining every building in the so-called "torso belt." Meanwhile, he had interested Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell and was made a special deputy.

But he found nothing. "We knew we had to change our pace," Lyons recalled, "so we decided to begin with what was known. We looked for friends of Mrs. Florence Polillo (No. 3 victim) and Edward W. Andraszy (No. 2)."

Then Lyons made an important discovery. He found a group, varying in number from five to 20, met in one another's rooms to drink cheap liquor whenever one of them had 35 or 40 cents.

CONTACTED VICTIMS' PALS

He made friends with members of this group, learned Mrs. Polillo and Mrs. Rose Wallace (No. 8 victim) were close friends. He found Andraszy had frequented the district often.

A fruit store proprietor told him of a man named "Frank" who loved knives and had "threatened" friends with them.

He found "Frank's" old room, learned this was "Frank Dolazel."

Lyons inspected the premises and found cracks in the bathroom floor and baseboard filled with a clothed substance. Scrapings were examined by Lyons' brother, a chemist, and reported to be human blood.

The investigators ultimately found Dolazel in a house around the corner. They trailed him for weeks.

this as one of the "liss" he wanted to clear up.

While Dolazel told of friendship with two of the other "torso" killing victims, his questioners postponed quizzing him further concerning them until the story of Mrs. Polillo's death became "satisfactory."

The 32-year-old suspect was closely guarded.

"There are some discrepancies between what Dolazel says he did and what are the known facts in the Polillo case," O'Donnell said. "We want to get a confession that will hold up in court before we place any charges against him."

"However, I have no doubt he is the man."

"I really think he's in on some of the other torso murders. We think he is involved in at least two more—Mrs. Rose Wallace, 48, a Negress, and Edward W. Andraszy, 28. He knew them both," the sheriff said.

Meanwhile, Coroner Samuel R. Gerber planned to recheck all data in his files concerning the dissection of the bodies, the presence of knife marks on joints and other laboratory information.

"Our records show some slight differences in the manner in which Mrs. Polillo's body was dismembered and the manner in which the others were," Dr. Gerber said, "but I still feel that the murderer of Mrs. Polillo is responsible for all the crimes."

GIVES SUSPECT'S STORY

O'Donnell quoted Dolazel as saying he killed Mrs. Polillo after a butcher-knife fight over money. He gave this version of the man's story:

"She picked up a butcher knife and waving at me, I took the knife away. I punched her with my fist. Then I cut her head off and then I cut her body into pieces."

"I put pieces of her body in a basket. It took me three or four trips. I went down to the lakefront about four times to make sure the head was not washed ashore."

BIRDIE TIPS OFF HUB SOCIALITE'S SECRET WEDDING

Bowen C. "Sonny" Tufts, Jr., wealthy young Winchester socialite, and Barbara Minot, Southern society girl who played in the films under the name of Barbara Dare, have been Mr. and Mrs. for seven months it was revealed here today.

MRS. BARBARA TUFTS

Their romance and secret marriage was all revealed through their pet bird, which tumbled from their New York penthouse.

"Sonny" is the son of Mrs. Bowen Charlesworth Tufts of Winchester and the late Bowen Tufts, Boston broker. His bride is the daughter of Mrs. Carl Howell Reeves of and Colonel William Minot, Knoxville, Tenn., socialites.

The young couple were married at Fort Lee, N. J., December 3, 1938.

Their wedding night still be a secret, if the young couple's pet macaw hadn't hazarded an unauthorized flight from an open window of the penthouse, suffering a bruised eye in a forced landing.

The secret came out at the Kit Kat Club when "Sonny" and Barbara, dining with friends made the mistake of explaining how the macaw, named Waco, happened to suffer a black eye.

SONNY MAKES SLIP

"Sonny" playfully suggested they order a raw steak for Waco's injured eye, while "scolding" the bird for flying out of "our" penthouse.

The "our penthouse" slip led to an immediate cross-examination. Barbara blushed. "Sonny" stammered—and in no time the secret was "out." They told friends the only reason they had kept their marriage a secret was because they feared it might interfere with their respective careers.

YALE FOOTBALL STAR

Tufts has won considerable success as a singer, having until recently played in the WPA production, "Sing for Your Supper." Far from being on relief, "Sonny" was drafted for the production because of his singing talents.

He was graduated from Yale, where he played football, in 1939. He has two sisters, Molly and Jean. The latter will make her debut this season, after returning from a European bicycle tour.

"Sonny's" bride is a direct descendant of Lord Minot, after whose family Cape Minot in Wales takes its name.

The couple told friends they had no definite plans for the immediate future, but are considering the idea of forming a song and dance team.

Plan Impressive Tribute For General Logan Monday

Flags on all state buildings will be at half-staff Monday morning during the funeral at Gate of Heaven Church in South Boston of Lieutenant General Edward L. Logan wartime commander of the famous 161st Infantry and presiding justice of South Boston court.

'S NOT TRUE!—Dorothy Lamour, saring girl of the films, who, in a telegram sent to Lucella Parsons, International News Service movie columnist, denied she ever kissed Myrl Alderman in a night-club, as was testified at trial of his ex-wife's suit against Ruth Etting.

Tear Gas Routs Hubby In Rich Wife's Home

HACKENSACK, N. J., July 8. (AP)—Routed by police tear gas from the home of his estranged wife, Robert Andrews, 28-year-old son-in-law of Douglas Hertz, the wealthy sportsman and founder of the Pegasus Club near here, was held in the Bergen County jail today on a charge of threat to kill.

No bail was set by Judge Leonard Ferry of the first criminal court of Bergen County who committed Andrews to jail after hearing testimony on a fracas which started Thursday night and lasted until next morning at the wife's house on her father's estate at Rockleigh.

Patrolman Thomas Madden said Andrews barricaded himself in the house with his wife, Neola, 24, and their three children and wielded an axe threateningly at police who sought to dislodge him.

Police said Hertz was slightly injured when he toppled down a flight of stairs in a scuffle with his son-in-law.

Later, Andrews and Patrolman Madden suffered cuts when they crashed through a glass door as they rolled from the gas-filled second floor to the first.

of a ride home, police said, but the trio first decided to motor out the Worcester highway to Framingham.

Later, police quoted the girl as saying, they drove to Channell's camp at Lake Mastenock in Hopkinton. While Gunderen, the driver, went into the house, Channell attacked M.A. Rogan, police charge.

Terrified and weeping hysterically, she managed to run away from the scene and appealed to a passing truck driver for help, according to the police report, and she was carried to Hopkinton.

Meanwhile, three boys in another passing car trailed Gunderen and Channell several miles to the neighboring town of Ashland, where the Boston men's auto was wrecked on a sharp turn. The boys raced back to Hopkinton and informed state police.

Troopers were sent to Ashland by Sergeant Barnicle and Channell and Gunderen were arrested while they were trying to repair their car.

The tribute was ordered by Governor Saltonstall, who will attend the funeral, escorted by Major Michael J. McLoughlin of Brookline, his aide.

Other distinguished mourners will include Senator David I. Walsh on from Washington for the funeral, and Mayor Tobin.

General Logan, outstanding citizen soldier, will be given a full military funeral, with burial in Calvary cemetery.

Company A, 161st Infantry, will fire a volley over his grave as the body is lowered into the ground.

Colonel Paul G. Kirk will command the full strength of the 161st as it stands today. Battery C will represent the 161st Field Artillery, and there will be a troop of the 110th Cavalry, M. N. G.

BODY AT COHASSET

As the funeral cavalcade reaches Columbia road, wartime veterans of the famous Fighting Ninth will be lined up to deliver a last salute to the colonel of 1917.

Regulars and militiamen and veterans will have their part in the final tribute.

Expressions of condolence continued to pour in today upon the family. In addition to those already listed, Governor Saltonstall, Mayor Tobin and Governor Murphy of New Hampshire sent sympathy.

The general's body has been moved to the Logan summer home in Cohasset, there to remain until Monday.

At 10 a. m. a solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated by the Rev. Leo J. Logan, brother of the general and pastor of the Star of the Sea Church, Marblehead. The Rev. Matthew J. Flaherty of St. Agnes' Church, Arlington, will be deacon.

WILL LEAD HORSE

After the services the flag-draped coffin will be borne to the street by military pallbearers and placed again on a caisson to head the cortège on the last journey to the grave.

Close behind will come Gen. Logan's saddle horse, with his riding boots reversed in the stirrups, followed by an officer bearing his sabre.

Judge Logan came of an old South Boston family of soldiers. His father, Colonel Lawrence J. Logan, commanded the old Ninth Regiment of the Massachusetts National Guard, including the days of the Spanish War.

Lodge Battles Deport Order

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and Congressman Lawrence C. Conner today were enlisted in the cause of a Revere man, faced with breakup of his family through deportation proceedings.

The man is Grover Cameron, 39, of Campbell avenue, who is in difficulties with immigration authorities because he overstayed his leave during a recent visit to Canada by eight days. He had lived in the United States for 11 years.

Cameron applied for citizenship papers to lapse. Because of his repapers to elapse. Because of his recent visit to Canada he lost his rights here as a prior resident through immigration regulations. Proceedings against him were taken when he applied for relief.

'LUXURY' HOUSING LAWN HIT

A plan to extend boundaries of the new Charlestown housing project today was under fire by Charlestown business men.

As contracts were being awarded to the Cuyahoga Company of Cleveland, Ohio, for tearing down the 480 buildings included in the present Charlestown project and 200 buildings on Mission Hill, Roxbury, for a low bid of $73,230, Atty. James H. Brennan, counsel for the Business Men's Association, requested the Supreme Court to enjoin the Boston Housing Authority from extending the present boundaries.

Brennan charged that the Housing Authority plans an "unwarranted seizure" of a strip of land, 100 feet wide, on Bunker Hill st., extending from Polk st. to Hayes st., a distance of a quarter-mile.

Justice Henry T. Lummus issued an order of notice on the Boston Housing Authority, returnable on July 19, when a hearing will be held on the matter.

"The most amazing part of the proposed program," Brennan said, "is that the Boston Housing Authority intends to use the strip only as an ornamental lawn when the project is completed. This would be the most expensive and luxurious lawn in the United States. No wonder Charlestown business men already are calling it 'luxury lawn,' pleasing to the eye, but a tremendous waste of the taxpayers' money."

Trio of Nudist Bathers Nabbed on Swan Boats

Delicious warmth of pre-dawn air and the cooling waters of the Public Garden pond was just too much of a temptation today for three South Boston youths—who didn't have their bathing suits.

The trio, George Buhl, 25, of Wells park; George H. Forbush, 25, of West Second street, and Boleslav J. Vaichumis, 21, of D street, were doing fancy dives from the swan boats—in their "birthday suits"—according to police of the Back Bay station.

Without even a chance to dress, the three were bundled into a police cruiser and taken to the Back Bay station. After donning their clothes they were shipped off to central court and held on charges of violation of park department rules.

HANGING!—But it's only in fun, folks. The victim is effigy of housing authority official who has been chasing boys from Charlestown area condemned for new housing project. Those boys!

Hospitalize 14 Gassed Bathers

UTICA, N. Y., July 8 (AP)—Fourteen persons, three in serious condition, were hospitalized today after they had been overcome by chlorine gas swept by wind over a municipal swimming pool.

Doctors and firemen treated 64 others with inhalators. The victims, many of whom were in the water, were affected when a gust of wind blew across the pool fumes from a storage tank which attendants had opened preparatory to connecting it with the pool's chlorinating apparatus yesterday. Officials at Faxon Hospital, where the victims were treated, said William Rubin, 60, New York city; Clarence Mosher, 17, and Leonard Nunno, 42, both of Utica, were in serious condition.

U. S. Buggy Whip Sales $500,000

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—The buggy whip business is still good, thank you. The census bureau disclosed today that in spite of horseless carriages and irish horses, sales of whips amounted to about $500,000 last year. At prices ranging from 10 cents up, this means several million whips.

OPERA STAR ASKS NEW NATIONAL AIR

LOS ANGELES, July 8 (INS)—Frederick Jagel, Metropolitan Opera star, has launched a new repeal movement.

Frederick Jagel

He seeks the recall of "The Star Spangled Banner" as our national anthem, he said today.

It was never intended for that purpose, he declares, and in no way expresses the true spirit of America. Moreover, nobody can remember the words and few can sing the air. He is campaigning for a new song, chosen perhaps, in a competition of capable lyricists, which would voice the "real, enthusiastic patriotism of the people," with a rousing, uplifting tune, especially one written by an American composer, which could be sung without putting too much strain on the average equipment.

EX-CHIEF OF SPAIN ON TRIAL

MADRID, July 8 (AP)—The government today demanded the death penalty for elderly Professor Julian Besteiro, last head of the defeated Spanish Republic, as he went on trial before a military tribunal on charges of "aiding rebellion."

Demand was made by the prosecutor at the close of a two-hour speech which followed reading of a deposition by Besteiro in which he told of efforts to end the civil war early this year "to prevent further bloodshed."

Julian Besteiro

The 63-year-old Socialist leader and philosophy teacher was the man whose peace council paved the way for the surrender of Madrid and the collapse of the Spanish Republic last March.

Declaring that he and President Manuel Azana decided after the fall of Lerida early in January that continued fighting was useless, Besteiro said he went to London and consulted former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in an attempt to find a way to obtain a truce.

This trip proved fruitless, he told the court.

His defense against a 41-page indictment was read in the form of a deposition while he sat in the courtroom of the palace of justice with a civil guard lieutenant at his side. Although the trial was public, few civilians were present.

Besteiro said that even before the war his policy was contrary to "revolutionary" views of his own party. He said he helped overthrow the regime of Premier Juan Negrin last spring and helped for the national council of defense "in order to keep the Communists from having power and prolonging the resistance" of the republic.

Ignores Police, Leaps to Death

Disregarding the warnings of two police officers who sighted him on the Jamaica pond boat landing, Edward F. Mahoney, 27, of Center street, Jamaica Plain, plunged into the water and was drowned today.

Within seven minutes, radio cars with grappling irons were on the scene and Mahoney's body was recovered from 40 feet of water, only 15 feet from shore. All efforts of officers to resuscitate the man were unsuccessful.

Jagel asserted his views during a dress rehearsal of "Aida," to be presented at Hollywood Bowl, marking his 50th appearance in the leading tenor role.

"Even a casual reading of 'The Star Spangled Banner' will show that it is entirely inappropriate as our national air," he said.

"Throughout its four long and complex verses, it is a glorification of war and a preachment of hatred.

"We teach our school children to strain their voices in praise of the reckless red glare and bombs bursting in air. We teach them the grandeur of victory in battle when the blood of our foes has washed out their foul footsteps' pollution."

"As a song of triumph in war, 'The Star Spangled Banner' is probably quite all right. It was written to celebrate the defeat of the British at Fort Mifflin in 1814."

Jagel further objects that the verses are sung to the tune of an old English drinking song of unknown authorship popular in London taverns at that time.

A Plot In the Enemy's Camp

Senate Groups Unite to Fight Roosevelt Neutrality Bill

WASHINGTON, July 8 (INS)—A solid wall of Senate opposition ringing over all parties today threatened utter defeat to President Roosevelt's neutrality demands for a law lifting the ban on arms shipments to warring nations abroad.

So powerful was the opposition that a touch-and-go contest was ahead before the administration can even prevent a Senate foreign relations committee vote to abandon all neutrality legislation for this session of Congress.

PLEDGE FIDELITY
The 25-man committee was reported divided 11 to 11 on the question of dropping neutrality legislation, with Senator Gillette (D.) of Iowa still "on the fence."

The committee meets next Tuesday to determine this question.

Should the committee decide to drop neutrality, consideration of it on the floor was a virtual impossibility.

Should the Roosevelt forces win Gillette over to their side and make the fight, a coalition claiming a minimum of 34 Senate members was pledged to filibuster indefinitely if necessary in order to prevent enactment of the administration-favored program.

Meal of these 34 members gathered at a caucus held in the office of Senator Johnson (R.) of California, and afterwards issued an ultimatum declaring they were prepared to go to any lengths to block enactment of the arms ban-lifting legislation.

DEFEAT IS PREDICTED

Following this meeting two ring-leaders in the coalition, Senators Nye (R.) of North Dakota, and Clark (D.) of Missouri, bluntly told International News Service:

"The administration program for a neutrality law that will lift the arms embargo in the present law is dead. We believe we have sufficient votes to defeat it if it ever comes to a vote—and if we have any doubt about that, you can be sure we will never let it come to a vote."

State Department officials were frankly worried over the menace to the administration program, and anxiously followed developments subsequent to the caucus in Johnson's office. What they found out was not, apparently, satisfying. A meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee scheduled yesterday was suddenly postponed until next Tuesday.

Whatever the outcome, the administration today was faced with two obvious alternatives:

1.—A major congressional struggle, nearly as bitter as that which was aroused by the President's Supreme Court enlargement bill.

2.—Abandonment of its demands for a neutrality law lifting the arms ban.

Despite obstacles ahead, supporters of the President insisted they would go ahead and make the fight.

Sec. Swanson's Funeral Monday

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—A state funeral was arranged today for Claude A. Swanson in the Senate chamber, where he represented his native Virginia for 23 years before President Roosevelt made him Secretary of the Navy.

Charles Edison, the assistant secretary of the navy, who automatically became acting secretary yesterday at the death of Swanson, announced that the services would be conducted at 1 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) Monday. Burial will be in Hollywood cemetery, Richmond, Va., that afternoon.

President Roosevelt ordered national mourning and directed that flags on all federal buildings and on naval craft everywhere, from Singapore to Portsmouth, be lowered to half-staff until after the burial. Beginning at noon today, the guns of the fleet anchored off San Pedro, Cal., were to boom out a 19-gun salute.

Clipper Starts Mercy Flight

NEW YORK, July 8 (INS)—Carrying a group of newspaper publishers and bent on an errand of mercy, the giant Yankee Clipper took off from Port Washington at 9:22 a. m. (E. D. T.) today for the inauguration by Pan-American Airways of regularly scheduled trans-Atlantic air travel.

Following the northern or "great circle" route, the 41-ton plane will travel by way of Canada, Newfoundland and Ireland to England.

At the last minute, a place was found aboard the huge 41-ton clipper for Guido Coen, formerly of Florence, Italy, and now a resident of the United States, who is speeding to his son, believed to be dying from infantile paralysis.

Nab 3 in Auto Theft After River Plunge

Two Massachusetts state troopers plunged into the Charles river early today, near Spring street, Dedham, to arrest three Rhode Island youths at the climax of a wild, 80-mile-an-hour stolen car chase along the Providence post road.

The officers were Patrolmen Robert Mitchell and John Blake of the Wrentham barracks, who saw a car speed past them as they were doing routine checking of automobiles on the highway in Wrentham.

For more than 30 miles the police cruiser raced after the fugitive car at a breakneck clip. As the troopers drew near, they fired warning shots.

The pursued auto skidded to a sudden stop near the river and three youths fled to the water, then plunged in. One outswam the others and reached the opposite bank but the troopers waded in and forced the remaining two to surrender, after trailing them half a mile through the river marshes.

Half an hour later, the first youth was found in some bushes off Route 1 in Dedham. His clothes were soaked and mud-stained.

All three were held in Dedham jail for the police of Central Falls, R. I., when a teletype alarm was received, after their capture, that they were wanted for questioning in connection with the larceny of a New Hampshire auto.

They gave the names of Stanley Zajac, 21, Cheston H. Savage, 22, and Anthony Mattered, 22, all of Providence.

R. I. PROBE IN HANDS OF SOLONS

Bearing the approval of Governor Saltonstall, a report of the special citizens committee investigating the proposed closing of the Old Colony Branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad today was ready for consideration by the Legislature.

The committee, headed by Lieutenant-Governor Horace T. Cahill, stressed two recommendations in filing its report:

1.—Appointment of an unpaid legislative commission with powers to integrate present agencies striving to solve the Old Colony problem and to summon witnesses and books and take testimony under oath.

2.—Allotment by the Legislature of funds to Attorney-General Paul A. Dever with which to hire experts and protect the interests of the Commonwealth.

The commission also pointed out that abandonment would imperil in time of war the ammunition depots, army camps, Fore River shipyard, Cape Cod canal and other defense necessities.

GROTON, Ct., July 8 (AP)—The pretentious $3,000,000 Eastern Point estate of the late Commodore Morton F. Plant was reliably reported today to have been purchased by his widow, Mrs. William Haywood, wife of Colonel Haywood, war time army officer and New York lawyer.

Commodore Plant was Mrs. Haywood's second husband, her first being the late Selden Manwaring. Their son is Philip Plant of Waterford, big game hunter and ex-Broadway playboy.

Keep Embargo, Senators Demand

WASHINGTON, July 8—Thirty-four Senators Served the Following Notice on President Roosevelt:

"We are unalterably opposed to the repeal or modification of the present neutrality law, prohibiting the sale or exportation of arms, munitions or implements of war to nations engaged in war. We are against any discretion being lodged in the hands of any Chief Executive to determine an aggressor or aggressors during any war abroad.

"We believe in the real neutrality of our nation in case of any armed conflict.

"We are determined to maintain our position by every honorable and legitimate means at our command."

Picking the Winner Did Spies Sink Subs?

WHAT THOROUGHbred will streak to victory next Wednesday, when the $50,000 handicap is run at Suffolk Downs? Ace Handicapper Dave Wilson undertakes to answer that question tomorrow in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

SUBMARINE DISASTERS involving the Aquinas, Theta and Phenix inspire international wonder and speculation and make millions inquire: "Was it sabotage?"

Tomorrow, in the Advertiser, a former Intelligence officer of the United States Navy gives his opinion, based on fact and knowledge born of experience.

THE WORLD'S FAIR AREA was not always the happy place it is today.

Thirty-five years ago the pleasure ship General Slocum burned and sunk in East River with one thousand school children on board.

Tomorrow, the Advertiser's Green Magazine gives a dramatic account of that tragedy and shows how similar disasters are now prevented.

MAT YOH'S OWN STORY continues in the Green Magazine. This far-famed woman, wife of a British Lord and owner of the priceless Hope Diamond tells how she rose from the chorus of "Honey Mah Honey" to the topmost position in London society.

Other interesting features include: The story behind the popular song hit, "Stairway to the Stars"; how a battery trapped the notorious mad killers of the Bay State, and columns by Walter Winchell, Mark Hellinger, Carol Ames, George Holland and Hollywood reporters.

ANOTHER INVITATION to enjoy a cruise to historic Provincetown at a reduced rate is extended to Advertiser readers.

The S. S. Steel Pier once more offers a coupon entitling those who clip and present it to a delightful all-day trip.

THE CURES AT LOURDES are the subject of a graphically illustrated feature in the American Weekly, the nation's biggest magazine, distributed with the Sunday Advertiser.

Dr. Stanley Stanton, American psychiatrist, reports on his personal observations at the world-famous grotto shrine.

And Father John LaFarge, eminent Catholic scholar, discusses the spiritual aspect of the phenomena.

EVERY HOME-MAKER will surely read the Weekly's Household Department, where Miss Mary Lee Seann, noted writer and lecturer on cooking, gives easily prepared menus for summer and tells how to make the new "World's Fair Dieties."

Another gripping story has to do with a millionaire's will. When this sentimental, old gentleman made his final bequest, he started a deep-dyed detective drama with shadowy sleuths, impersonations and baffling deciphering until, at last, came a startling climax with all the records vanished into thin air.

OTHER EXCELLENT FEATURES in the American Weekly include: "Crutches for Pups," "Bad Manners," "Saved from Death by a Doorbell," "Dreamed Her Missing Husband Into Jail," "See Saw Beds That Help Make Patients Well," and "Is the Stock Riding with the Democrats?"

2 STATES JOIN HUNT FOR AIR LOTHARIO

CHARLESTON, Mo., July 8 (AP)—A will-o'-the-wisp aviator who left his blonde girl companion behind as he eluded officers seeking to question him about ownership of his small plane was the object of a widespread hunt today in southern Missouri and Illinois.

He was flying a silver cabin plane bearing the same identification numbers as one stolen last week at Frankfort, Ind. Officers believed the plane had only enough gasoline to keep it aloft three hours.

Meanwhile, Goldie Gehrlen, 17, back at her Vernon, Ill., home, told of refusing to marry the barnstorming young pilot with whom she flew away last Monday. She knew him as Larry Thompson, about 26.

The girl's mother, Mrs. John Gehrlen, said she and her husband were reluctant to file charges because the young man took such good care of her daughter.

"He begged me to marry him," Miss Gehrlen related, "but I would not do it." Thompson escaped yesterday in view of officers who were waiting at a local landing field.

He was in the air with a load of passengers when Sheriff Walter Beck arrived. Instead of returning there, he landed in another field, discharged his passengers and took off again.

Sheriff Beck, who then took the girl into custody, said the pilot "apparently sensed trouble."

How to Visit Them All Only Problem

There is only one really important vacation problem for the vacationist, and that is finding a way to visit all the delightful play centers at once, take a trip to Massachusetts' delightful South Shore, North Shore, and manage to squeeze in a trip to the beautiful lakes and mountains of northern New England.

Fortunately there is nothing big-mous about falling in love with half a dozen vacation spots and few indeed are the fast ones who cannot think of at least two or three places they would like to visit.

The variety is infinite. One could visit more or less in going to anything to the stored up literature available that points out the varied points of all the delightful play spots.

Here is just a few well-end suggestions. A good way to visit the North Shore is to take a trip to the upper Narragansett Bay where the famous Narragansett Pier, the Narragansett Pier Hotel, and the Narragansett Pier Casino are located. A trip to the Narragansett Pier Hotel is a must for anyone who wants to visit the North Shore. No American's vacation is complete without a trip to Plymouth and the New Haven Railroad's trip is a most desirable one. In fact, in those low cost trips to the historic Plymouth, the Narragansett Pier Hotel, the Narragansett Pier Casino, the Narragansett Pier Hotel, and the Narragansett Pier Casino are located. IT'S SKIN GAME TO JOHNNY

The Fourth of July had a dual significance for little Johnny Dawber of Lamber avenue, Roxbury—he was two years old Independence Day and also discharged from Children's Hospital after a successful skin graft operation.

Several months ago the boy accidentally caught his hand in a clothes wringer and considerable skin and flesh was torn away.

His parents took him to Children's hospital where Dr. McGauley of the hospital staff performed an operation, taking skin from the child's leg and fitting it on his injured arm.

Doctors said the wound in due time will entirely disappear and who can tell Johnny might be a star track rider for the Red Sox some day.

'Bear of Oakland' in Drydock Before Icey Trip

Byrd's Veteran Ship Set For Face-Lifting Ordeal

A 68-year-old veteran of a score of battles—with the ice-packed seas near the North and South poles today began to get her face lifted for another tussle with the Antarctic.

PATCH WORK

Repair Job on Bottom

She is the "Bear of Oakland," Admiral Richard E. Byrd's barque, whose sturdy, 30-inch oak ribs have been standing off the assault of ice and the fiercest gales since she was built in Scotland in 1871 for the sailing trade.

Bought by Admiral Byrd for his last Antarctic expedition, when he spent three years in the Arctic to bring the old ship as a floating headquarters, the "Bear of Oakland" has been tied up in South Boston since her return in 1935 with a few days' rest.

Then she was towed over to the At the Ways, a dock in East Boston, to be cleaned and repainted with the new DuPont paint in which a part of the current hull, which has suffered by withstanding 1000.

When the "Bear" leaves for the next time, under sail, in July, she will be the ship which won the first place in the race to the North Pole, when she sailed the ship in a battle with the icebergs. She was the first ship to reach the North Pole, and she was the first ship to reach the South Pole.

BOSTON, properly concerned with the saving of human lives, dedicates the next six months to HIGHWAY SAFETY.

The campaign, under the leadership of Mayor Tobin and Police Commissioner Timilty, moves forward on two fronts.

It recognizes the fact that it is within the power of the Police Department to regulate the motorist to operate at such a reasonable speed on city thoroughfares as to have full control of his car when the hazard of a collision with a pedestrian or another vehicle occurs.

It also recognizes the other and equally important fact that the pedestrian can be made so conscious of danger that he will surely look out for himself, no matter what type of driver appears within the range of his vision.

Assuming responsibility for the work on the first front, Commissioner Timilty is dividing the city into districts corresponding to the various police divisions, with the police captain in command serving as campaign leader for his locality.

WHY BOSTON LAUNCHES SAFETY CAMPAIGN

She Wanted Her Ball and She Followed It Into Street

"Each must do his utmost," says the Commissioner. "During the past three years 82 per cent of the persons killed in Boston have been pedestrians. It is apparent that our efforts during the next six months must be directed toward the reduction of pedestrian accidents."

The second front is directed by Mayor Tobin, who has appointed a committee of leading citizens to assist him.

Those men will seek to contact and educate the general public, particularly that part of the general public in the pedestrian class.

Each will bring the message of caution and preach the gospel of carefulness to clubs, social organizations, churches, playgrounds, schools and homes.

Their purpose is to make Boston the SAFEST CITY IN THE UNITED STATES—a goal which the Mayor explains as follows:

"I am so encouraged by our steadily improving record, as to feel certain that if everybody works together, we can better all our previous achievements."

He further reveals:

"The areas in Boston that present the most serious traffic accident problem, as measured by fatalities, are Downtown Boston, Dorchester, Roxbury, South Boston and East Boston."

"Downtown Boston had 46 deaths in automobile accidents in 1936, but reduced them to 26 in 1937 and to 22 in 1938."

"Dorchester had its peak in 1937, with 26 dead, but reduced this to 18 last year. Roxbury also hit a high of 25 dead two years ago, and reduced this to nine last year."

"South Boston had a high of 19 in 1934, but a low of six last year. East Boston reported 11 dead in 1936, but only seven last year."

"Taking the city as a whole, the record for the past five years has been 143 deaths in 1934, with a downward trend in the years following of 137, 135, 116 and 79."

"But we can and should do better."

GENERAL EDWARD L. LOGAN, wartime commander of the 101st Infantry, will be remembered as a distinguished citizen, lawyer, soldier and jurist.

As long as the far-famed Yankee Division endures and its memory lingers, he will be recalled with love and affection.

That undoubtedly would have been his wish, for of all the activities of his useful life, no period brought him more satisfaction than that spent with his boys "Over There."

It is to be regretted that the last days of this good and peaceful man must have been saddened by movements in Washington and elsewhere again to involve the United States in European blood shed.

Child Wonder

SHE danced at entertainments: she could imitate bird calls . . . You'd often see her late at night in overcrowded halls . . . The satin slippers that she wore made fairylike her feet . . . and 'teen-age youth could but adore, while mothers sighed, "How sweet!" . . . "Little Butterfly" they named her; with the stars compared her eyes . . . and a wonder-child acclaimed her as they praised her to the skies.

What of your future, dainty sprite? Will you ascend to fame? . . . And will the marqués' dazzling light emblazon forth your name? . . . Or on Love's altar laying art, will you contented be . . . to play merely a mother's part—hand down your artistry?

Human Side of News -1- by EDWIN C. HILL

I HAVE HAD a bowing acquaintance with several bears up in Maine, although it does not happen that I have numbered many bears among my best friends. I have always liked them in general, though, and was sorry to see that item in the paper about the trouble they're having in Colorado.

On account of the drought in the mountains, the flowers didn't pollinize properly and hence there was little or no honey. The hungry bears started raiding sheep and cattle folds.

For most of us, our circle of bear friends is confined to zoos and to Yellowstone Park. It is hard to imagine that any of these big, friendly, clumsy chaps could ever "get tough." But hard times brings out the worst in him.

THAT'S ONE of the themes of that quite amazing book, "Of Ants and Men," by Caryl P. Haskins, recently published. Dr. Haskins is a soundly certified scientist of Union College, Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

This complete identification is important in view of the tall tales he tells of the doings of ants, and their disquieting parallels with human society and its changing and conflicting modes of organization.

Here's a tribe of ants, for instance, which has been getting on nicely for ages, as agriculturists,

KEEPING COOL IN HIS OWN PEACEFUL WAY But Hunger Will Make Him Cruel, Vicious Killer developing a smoothly working society, rearing their young peacefully, providing for the future and developing many skills, including the planting, fertilizing and weeding of their tiny farms.

Changing climatic conditions begin to make a desert of their country. They develop military organization and start forays in far countries which have better land. More and more of their productive energy goes to maintaining great armies.

They lose their agricultural skills, and if they are strong and adaptable, they finally come to survive by raiding and looting, rather than by agriculture.

Dr. Haskins is at great pains to explain all this. The society of ants is the only living organization on the earth which may be traced back to remote geological ages. The scientist is lucky if he finds one or two fragmentary bones with which to piece out his dinosaur.

But the complete ant fossils are there by the millions, embalmed in a drop of solidified pitch, or in some deep stratum of clay.

Their changing form, their great migrations, the various transformations of their social structure, all are clearly traceable, the whole revealing an utterly astonishing analogue of the age-old processes and group conflicts of human organization.

Political Parade -1- by GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The gorgeous New Deal $4,000,000,000 spending spree scheme had been kicked around the Capitol for more than a month, completely unnoticed, before Mr. Roosevelt sprung it on a stunned Congress in his now famous letter to Senator Byrnes, on June 22.

The President explained that "various departments and agencies of the Government" had been busily engaged trying to find projects—on which the billions would be expended—which would be "self-liquidating."

ON MAY 16 Dr. Alvin Harvey Hansen, Harvard professor of economics, tipped off the whole program in testimony he was giving before the temporary National Economic Committee—the O'Mahoney Committee of the Senate. He was an economist for the State Department back in 1934.

It has been said around the Capitol, since the President outlined his new four-billion-dollar scheme, that Dr. Hansen was the parent of it, but while he showed, in his testimony before the committee, a complete familiarity with the whole thing as far back as May, it does not appear that he was the author of it, and indeed, some of his admissions about the scheme are damaging.

At any rate, as determined conservatives in Congress are preparing to expose the fallacies of the latest New Deal spending plan, Dr. Hansen's statement is being read with great interest.

MARRINER ECCLES

Avoids "That Hateful Word"

Although Dr. Hansen outlined the philosophy of the self-liquidating projects, he frankly stated that he did not believe in the philosophy of those who hold that the way to recovery is through government spending.

None the less, he disagreed with those who would reduce the role of the government to a minimum. He added:

"We cannot afford to engage in irresponsible spending."

"On the other hand, we cannot afford to be niggardly with respect to public investment projects which are either directly or indirectly productive and which serve to raise the standard of living and thereby contribute to private business expansion, and especially is this the case when we have huge unused and idle resources."

There you have the philosophy which Mr. Roosevelt has embraced in his latest $4,000,000,000 spending scheme.

WE ARE "LEARNING from Mr. Moley in his current Saturday Evening Post articles, how the original brain trust fed ideas to Mr. Roosevelt."

It is not clear, from the evidence before the O'Mahoney Committee, that Dr. Hansen is now of the group that is feeding the latest spending spree idea to the President.

But it will be noted from the quotation above that Dr. Hansen glibly refers to the expenditures proposed to be made with some four billions of more borrowed money as "public investments."

And the avoidance of that hateful word "debt" is part of the new philosophy which the President shares with Mr. Marriner Eccles and others.

CHARLIE GRAPEWIN is "the man who dared" in the stirring First National picture of the same name. "Grandpa" Grapewin's pep talks on America and democracy in "The Man Who Dared" are arousing unusual enthusiasm on the part of Paramount and Fenway audiences who are not only applauding but doing a bit of hat-throwing by way of seconding the motion.

Kennedys See Alice Win Wimbledon Title

WIMBLEDON, England, July 8 (AP)—Playing one of the greatest games of her life, Alice Marble of San Francisco beat Kay Stammers of England today, 6-2, 6-0, and in 25 minutes added the Wimbledon "world tennis championship" to her United States crown.

ALICE MARBLE
Leaps to Receive Congratulations From Kay Stammers

Alice gave the pretty English southpaw only 11 points in the second set and, from the very outset, was so completely in command of the game that she never really was in danger.

Queen Mother Mary and United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy presided over the center court from the royal box.

E. S. SWEEP SEEN

Thumping the ball relentlessly into Kay's backhand corner, the American champion took only ten minutes to win the final set.

Though she started out by playing a baseline game, Alice went to the net after the third game and repeatedly left Miss Stammers gasping with a series of perfect half-volleys and unreturnable smashes deep into the court.

Alice won eight straight games after the sixth of the first set. She appeared a little nervous at the start and trailed by 15-40 after the first four points.

But after that she settled down for a brief period of baseline play and once she had found the weaknesses in Kay's backhand, she battered away at it until the match was over.

Her triumph gave the United States a sweep of the singles titles, fourth since having won the men's championship yesterday, with a chance to win all three doubles finals.

Fast Field In Suffolk Race Classic

An even dozen fleet horses will go postward in the Hampshire Handicap for a purse of $5000 added, which will head line another banner racing card today at Suffolk Downs. The handicap is limited to fillies and mares, three-year-olds and upward, over the route of a mile and a sixteenth.

Top weight of 114 pounds has been assigned to Savage Beauty, owned by W. L. Hagan, assistant of Chalchell and Astorville, sent to R. A. Coward's Ho Jabbers.

The race promises to be a wide open affair, with any one of a half dozen of the E. moulty sending up as the public choice. There are two entries in the event, Mrs. Emil Denmark sending Danah, Rock and Court Baron, out with Sockeye Harry Kravitz and Bill Robert guiding.

Hostility from the Wheeling club and W. L. Hagan, back to Hagan, still, both trained by F. Dwyer, will be coupled in the mile. Jimmy Ashcroft will ride Hagan while the veteran Tommy Shelby will be up on Wise Lady, which is in with the "right" input of 130 pounds.

PARSONS' CONTENDER

W. F. Hagan, has a strong contender in Parsons, the one and only, second mare, which will have Jimmy Ashcroft in the posthouse. Hagan, Weaver, and W. L. Hagan, will be up on Wise Lady, which is in with the "right" input of 130 pounds.

Trainer George Alexander has the Midway Stable's Ghost Queen with Jockey Albert Schacht, sent to a winning effort. The veteran, Tom Porter, the mount on Mrs. Will R. Hagan's Loveday. For the first time the price Hagan's stable has been the expected and one of W. L. Hagan's Taylor and may be the one to give the winners circle.

George Sealy will ride Mrs. E. Thompson's Toodle Oo, which may repeat in this sterling company.

COACH TOM BOLLES and Captain Dudley Talbot, whose Harvard crew is winning just as easily on England's Thames as it did on Thames at New London.

HARVARD REPEATS SALTONSTALL WIN IN ROYAL HENLEY

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, Eng., July 8 (AP)—Harvard's powerful eight won the famed Grand Challenge Cup at the Royal Regatta today, defeating the Argonauts of Toronto, Canada, in seven minutes, 40 seconds.

This was the first time the Crimson had entered the competition since 1914 when Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts stroked the New Englanders to victory.

The race was rowed in extremely unfavorable weather conditions, probably among the worst in the 100-year history of the regatta.

LED AT QUARTER

At the start the Canadians led but Harvard, stroked by John Wilson, quickly came up and was out in front by a quarter-length at the quarter-mile marker. By the time they reached the half-mile post, the Crimson boat had increased its advantage to three-quarters of a length.

From there on the New Englanders gradually pulled away, holding a length and quarter margin at the three-quarter-mile marker, though stroking only 32 to the Argonauts' 36, and a three-length advantage at the end of the mile and five-sixteenths.

ALL-AMERICAN FINAL

The victory, achieved after the Crimson had beaten two English crews in preliminary heats, capped a successful season for Harvard. The New England eight lost only to Cornell in a sprint race in the United States and whipped Yale in their annual four-mile test before sailing for England.

The Thames Cup competition became an All-American affair when two New England schoolboy eights, Kent and Taber, gained the finals. Kent, defending the trophy, beats Kings College by three lengths in 8:19 and Taber eliminated the Fama Rowing Club by one and a quarter lengths in 8:01.

JOE BURK WINS

Joe Burk of Philadelphia's Penn A. C. won the coveted Diamond Sculls for the second straight year after Harvard had taken the Grand Challenge Cup for eights.

Rowing in rain and wind, Burk beat R. Veroy of Poland by a length and a quarter in the comparatively slow time of nine minutes 12 seconds for the mile and five-sixteenths.

Dusty Cooke Loses Batting Lead

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—After six weeks of setting the pace for International League leaders, Allen (Dusty) Cooke of the Rochester Red Wings finally was overtaken this week by the veteran Jim Ogleby of the Buffalo Bisons.

The 34-year-old Bison outfielder has been Cooke's most persistent pursuer and when the blight on Rochester hitting pulled Dusty down from 374 to 368 this week, Ogleby took advantage of the opportunity to inflate his own mark from 363 to 374.

NATIONAL LEAGUE FIELD
Double Header Tomorrow at 1:30
BEES vs. PHILADELPHIA
Balls at National League Field, New York

BILL POSEDEL, who has been pitching so sensationally for the Bees, was acquired as a result of the expert judgment of Bob Quinn . . . When the Bees were at Bradenton, Fla., Lou Fette was the only regular pitcher who was showing good form . . . Quinn was quick to realize this situation, packed his bag, made a trip to Clearwater where he secured the services of Poseedel . . . The latter has more than come up to Quinn's highest expectations . . . Poseedel kept winning ball games when other Bees' flingers were faltering . . . He has continued his victory habit since the other veterans have returned to form . . . The result is the Bees are moving along merrily in the National League race.

Larry MacPhail, colorful business manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, didn't shed any tears when the police riot squad turned out for the first of the series between the Giants and Dodgers . . . The public likes excitement, and the four games in three days between the Giants and Dodgers will draw 90,000 people despite the fact the Yankees are battling the Red Sox across the bridge . . . There are no fans who thrive on baseball feuds any more than do the Dodgers' followers.

Youthful Emerson Dickman pitched brilliant baseball when sent in to relieve Wade . . . With three men on base, Emerson struck out Dahlgren and Ruffing, and then held the slugging Yankees in check while the Sox edged out a 4-3 victory . . . Last season Dickman displayed winning form, and it looked as though he would come along to become a regular flinger this year . . . Dickman got off to a poor start, but now that the weather has warmed up may have found himself . . . Better pitching is the chief reason for the improved playing of the Sox.

The Yanks still must face Lefty Grove and Fritz Ostermuller, both of whom defeated them in their last visit to Boston . . . The Yanks do not do as well against southpaws as they do when opposing right hand pitchers.

Baseball is enjoying an exceptional pickup in attendance figures after a bad slump early in June . . . Baseball still has a greater hold on the American people than any other sport . . . It will have temporary reverses, but over a period of time will always do well.

Lukes Challenged
Buy me a $2 ticket on Challenged to win the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap. I think he is a cinch.
GRANDSTAND LARK.

Cheering for Miller
Baseball fans everywhere now recognize that Eddie Miller of the Bees should be playing shortstop for the National League team in the All-Star game against the American League in New York on next Tuesday. Miller has class, flash and sparkle, and is by far the best shortstop in baseball today.

RALPH TERRELL, 13 Ann.

Dempsey is Greatest
Jack Dempsey is by far the most popular athletic figure in America today. Everybody displayed intense concern over Dempsey when he recently fought to live. We are all pleased Jack is going to regain his full health and will soon be around with us again.
HARRY.

Random Shots at Target

NED BROWN, Jack Dempsey's "right eye" during his illness, used to be boxing editor of the New York Morning World . . . After that newspaper suspended, Ned became associated with the Manassa Mauler, and has handled his publicity as well as many of his business ventures . . . When Dempsey gets back on his feet, he will be in greater demand than ever for appearances as referee.

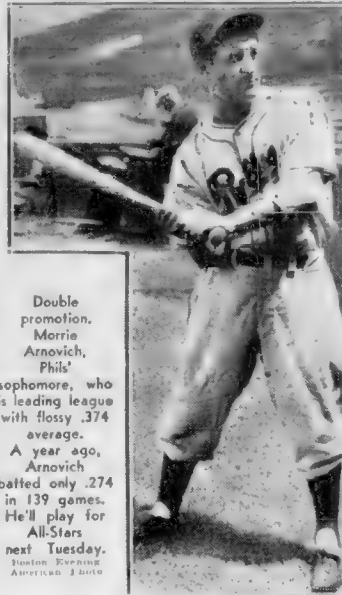

Al McCoy has agreed to go through with a bout with Buddy Knox at Dayton, Ohio . . . Later McCoy hopes to get a crack at Tony Galento in a Boston ring . . . Johnny O'Connor, who manages most of the big bands along Broadway, is rooting for Billy Conn of Pittsburgh to pack on enough weight to fight Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship . . . Billy has a younger brother, Jackie, who boxes as a lightweight . . . Jackie's favorite training dish is ice cream . . . Broadway's night spots say they have not benefited from the world's fair . . . When people return from a day at the fair they are tired and also short on cash.

A Chicago newspaperman arriving in New York with his family thought it would be impossible to get hotel accommodations in the Roaring Forties on account of the fair . . . The newspaperman was amazed when told he could have 20 rooms if he wished them . . . People have bought a lot of New York hotels in the belief the rates had been jacked to the sky . . . This is not true now, though there were a few cases of high hotel rates in the early days of the fair . . . Those were the days when anxious hotel clerks told regular patrons to make their summer reservations early . . . Now all one needs to get a room in any New York hotel is the necessary cash . . . There are no sellouts.

Cashman Gives Sox Even Chance to Win Pennant

By JOE CASHMAN

NEW YORK, July 8—All along the critics have been saying that the Red Sox lacked the pitching to make a serious bid for the American League pennant.

Double promotion. Morrie Arnovich, Phil's sophomore, who is leading league with flossy .374 average. A year ago, Arnovich batted only .274 in 139 games. He'll play for All-Stars next Tuesday. Boston Evening American Photo

In the history of the Sox-Yankees series to date it would seem more accurate to say that Joe Cronin possesses the pitching to extend the New York Yankees but has been very if not fatally faulty in Early in the campaign the Fenway flock lost three out of four to the Yanks. The lone victory was gained in by Monte Weaver, who was making his first start and hasn't started since.

In the past week, on the other hand, the Cronin men have taken three out of four from the champs. One of these triumphs was fashioned by Fred (Fritz) Ostermuller, hanging up over here yesterday in the opener of a five game engagement, was the work partly of Jake Wade and mostly of Emerson Dickman.

Where were these three young men last in April and May?

In the dog house, while Jim Bagby, Jack Wilson and Denny Galehouse were being favored with starting assignments and the Yanks were compiling a losing record.

Ostermuller boasts three straight victories as he faces the McCarthy mobsters in one game of the first of two successive twin bills this p.m. Yet "Fritz" hasn't made more than a half dozen starts since the bell rang and his record is but 4-1 at this writing.

Wade was the star of the first start of the year yesterday when he held his own with Charlie Ruffing until forced to give way to Dickman in the sixth.

And Dickman, who in the relief role, turned in one of the most sensational exhibitions of clutch pitching ever seen in the Stadium, didn't make his first start until July 4.

With their newly found mound strength the Sox have chopped three games off the Yankees' lead in a week.

And Boss Cronin, hoping that further new line blood will produce more miracles, has shipped Jim Bagby off to Little Rock in exchange for Bill "Chic" Scales, a rookie right handed farmer who had trials with the varsity at Sarasota in the springs of 1937 and 1938.

Maybe Flossy Joe is unearthing pitching talent too late. Maybe, too, the new building at Yawkey won't look so impressive when the opposition becomes more accustomed to it.

As the Sox have found it hard to get back into the doghouse of the flag flight and, it would seem, stay there.

TRIAL BY TEN GAMES

True, the Back Bay Boys still trail the champs by 10 games, but they've lost only seven more games than the New Yorkers and they have a chance to materially reduce that advantage in the four remaining games of this engagement. A week ago we'd have said the odds were 100 to 1 against

LIGHTER BATS HELP BEES BATting MARKS

Lighter bats—acquired upon the command of chief Casey Stengel—are keeping some semblance of oomph in the Bees batting attack these torrid days when teams and players and batting averages are wilting under the scalding sun.

Casey has had half a dozen war clubs added to the rack at the Berra dugout at N. L. Field, all under 30 ounces and is urging his boys to pick out a new bat and try a light weight. They give double aid, according to pilot Stengel.

A player who is out of the groove and off timing can regain his swing with a lighter willow and then switch back to a club of customary heft.

A player who feels droopy in the current scorches will find such a light bat easier to swing and will get him self more hits.

Buddy Hassett rolled out to second and then popped to third in his first two trips to the plate yesterday as the Bees came up with a 7-3 win behind Sailor Bill Poseedel, with Max West the hitting hero, cleaning the bases with a booming triple.

WORKED FOR HASETT
"I'm going to try one of these new bats," said Hassett to his boss before making his third walk to the batter's box. He snapped a single to right.

His fourth appearance saw him connect for a ringing single over second.

The fifth time he drove a bullet to the right of shortstop on which George Stenhouse made a fine throw to catch the ball. Hassett's third straight hit with the new light bat.

"The manager has another bright idea," said Hassett at the finish, with two hits for five tries, which boosted his batting mark to .319.

Tony Cucinello went for 352, found the 23-ounce weapon to great advantage. Cincinnati tried it upon his recent return to the line up, got his timing back after a long lay-

Bees Have Chance To Climb Ladder
Leahy to Attend 2 Coaching Schools

By BILL GRIMES

In the event that they make a clean sweep of the Phillies series and that Jim Turner and Dick Erickson round into shape during the three off days next week, the Bees have a fine opportunity of climbing up the ladder and finishing in the first division.

Just let Jim Turner, Lou Felle and Dick Erickson hit winning strides and the Bees will be bad medicine for all Bostonians.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leahy and Frank, Jr. are in town for a few days, house hunting. Frank, Jr. got a good kick out of the last ride from New York but that was nothing compared to the thrills he is getting watching the trains from the Leahy suite at the Hotel Lenox.

The B. C. football mentor will return to New York next week and pack his grip for a trip to Fort Worth and Dallas, Texas, from there he'll go to Spill Lake to attend the University of Iowa football coaches' school. Then, he'll take in another football school at Daytona Beach, Fla. Frank plans to be back here the last week in August.

The Haverford College who played with Hyton Nelson, the U. S. open champion in the All Star amateur pro tournament at Fort Washington, N. Y., is the old Princeton football and hockey star, who, while taking a P. G. course at Harvard, played for the B. A. A. in the old Arena.

And, I saw two other old time puck chasers battling little white spheres around Weston. They were Alex "Ajax" Campbell and Joe McNeill. They have perfect their links game to such an extent that they are the No. 1 team of the Weston Twilight Four-Ball League.

Dr. Campbell played for Pete Morgan, the old M. S. C. who was the old Arena A. C. who, attending Tufts Medical School and M. I. T., respectively.

Until this year, Mrs. E. H. Baker, six time winner of the W. G. A. title, never played a round of five golf during the year.

The new coach of the O. C. A. is Mrs. A. W. Moore, who is in town to play in the O. C. A. league.

Johnny Ginnell, who is signed as coach at Lexington high to become Harry Downes' assistant at Haverford, is playing ball at Wintthrop. Mr. Ginnell was one of the best all around athletes ever developed at Tufts and is a very promising young coach. Incidentally, Harry Downes is a counselor at Tom Hinde camp.

Charlie MacAndrew, who is the pro at the Burlington, Vt. Country Club flew here to attend a meeting of the N. E. P. G. A. Thursday at the Hotel Lenox. He tried to interest the local branch of the P. G. A. in a $1500 tournament which the Burlington Country Club will sponsor next month. But, he didn't sell the idea for his tournament conflicts with an amateur tournament at Toledo. However, the $1500 prize money will cause many of the local pros to trek to Burlington.

Charlie Becker and Tommy White came down from Poland Springs for the same meeting. They are interested in the coming Poland Springs Metropolitan Style tournament listed for July 23 and 24. Some members of the N. E. P. G. A. executive board believe that a limit should be placed on the number of amateurs a pro can play with in a Metropolitan Style tourney.

Other that it complicates the work on the score board what difference does it make if a pro plays with one of ten amateurs. The real objection is that the "pokers" who are carried by the amateurs, resent getting closed out of a few dollars. But for their partners, some of our pros would never get in the 18th green.

Tommy White is the pro at Poland Springs. He broke into the game under Chris McGrath at Commonwealth. The Twilight Four Ball League, spring division, will hold its annual field day at Brae Burn next Tuesday.

And, on Thursday next, 300 members of the Eastern Car Foreman's Association will gather at the Race Brook Country Club at Orange, Ct., for their annual tournament. It requires an abundance of golf holes that get such a field around a course.

Race Brook was selected as the only New England according to Jim Ryan, who is in town to play in a freight car load of prizes for the E. C. F. A. tourney.

Many of the outstanding local pros will be at Rangleley Lakes over the weekend. Rangleley has been holding sizable money tournaments for a couple of seasons and even enticed Harold "Jug" McSpaden to play a year ago.

LARGEST CROWD OF SEASON SEE DODGERS BEAT GIANTS

BROOKLYN, July 8 (AP)—Peace—but not quiet—reigned at Ebbets Field today while 36,444 iron-lunged fans, the largest crowd of the season in Brooklyn, watched their beloved Dodgers beat the Giants, 3 to 2, in the opener of their red-hot four-game series.

The park was crammed with cops in anticipation of a busy afternoon, but nothing happened to mar the occasion, the local rooters apparently having been cowed by glaring signs warning them that the first spectator to toss a bottle would be juggled.

The victory, strengthening the Dodgers' hold on third place in the National League was the eighth straight pitched by Whitlow Wyatt, 30-year-old rookie from Milwaukee. He has yet to be defeated. The Dodgers scored all their runs off slim Cliff Melton in the first two frames, when they ganged him for five of their seven hits.

Cashman Has Hopes For Sox

even. Now we quote the price at even money.

Never afraid of the champs, the success they've had against them since last Saturday has given the Fenway favorites the notion that they can apply enough pressure to make the pace-setters crack.

And were inclined to agree with them after what we saw yesterday.

In other years, the Sox did pretty well against the Yanks in Boston but were licked before they started at the House that Ruth Built.

It appeared as though it would be the same story this year, when they were shut out here, in their opening game of the season.

But, making their second local appearance yesterday, they played the Borahs off their feet.

Three times they took the lead, three times they were caught, but eventually they won, 4 to 3.

The details are almost unbelievable.

Cramer getting a single, Williams walking and Cronin driving home a run in the first. The Yanks tying it in the second.

Cronin belting a homer in the fourth. The Yanks lying it up in the home half, but being unable to go ahead, despite having runners on first and second with none gone.

Fox doubling and Williams singling for a run in the fifth. The Yanks, in their half, knotting the count for the third time and having runners on second and third with one out when Dickman came in to walk Keller and then fan Dahlgren and Ebbetts.

Yanks on first and third with none out in the seventh and Dickman keeping them there while he got Selkirk on a pop and forced DMaggio to hit into a double play.

TALLY ON TABOR SPEED

A single by Williams, walk by Cronin, Vosmik hit by a pitched ball with one out in the eighth and Tabor's speed preventing a double play as Williams scored.

The Yanks getting two men on in their half only to have Dickman again fan Ruffing for the third out and set them down in order in the ninth.

Yes, the same Dickman who failed to win after being given a 16-run lead over the Athletics in his first start of the season on July 4. After that, the Red Sox are very strong pennant possibilities in our books if Cronin doesn't forget his new pitchers and his new pitchers don't forget how to pitch.

Incidentally, Bill Sayles, will join the Sox in Cleveland on Thursday. His Little Rock record of 7-7 is nothing to write home about but Herb Pennock rates him the best pitcher in the minors today.

Bagby, a freshman sensation with 15 wins last season, couldn't get anybody out this year.

He resented going back but agreed after a long talk with Cronin, who promised to recall him if he showed signs of returning to his '38 form which gave him the honor of pitching the opening game.

Tut Stainback was the Dodger batting hero. After opening the battle with a line double to left he scored on Dolf Camilli's fluke two-bagger in the same direction. Pete Coscarart's double, followed by singles by Leo Durocher and Stainback, brought in the other two Brooklyn scores in the second.

After that Melton and Manuel Salvo, who hurled the last two frames, held the winners to an infield hit by Durocher in the seventh and a single by Art Parks in the eighth. Melton struck out seven in the six innings he tolled.

As expected, Big Zeke Bonura of the Giants, who had a brief first fight with Manager Leo Durocher last week at the Polo Grounds, came in for a razing every time he came to bat. However, the banana merchant singled Bill Jurgens home with the Giants' first run in the sixth. Joe Moore's double and Jurgens' single accounted for the other score after two were out in the ninth.

CHICAGO, July 8 (INS)—Bobby Feller buried his 14th triumph of the year as the Cleveland Indians pounded out a 7 to 3 success over the White Sox.

Feller handcuffed the Sox with seven hits, snapped a Chicago five-game winning streak and, in addition, connected for a double and single to contribute to his foes' downfall.

The Indians smashed 12 safeties, with First Baseman Hal Trosky's homer, double and single packing the assault.

Marcum, Brown and Dobernick shared the pitching burden for Chicago.

ST. LOUIS, July 8 (INS)—Joe Gallagher's three-run homer sparked a St. Louis rally that netted five runs in the seventh inning to bring the Browns an 8-to-6 success over the Detroit Tigers.

PITTSBURGH, July 8 (INS)—The Chicago Cubs eked out a 5 to 4 victory over the Pirates in the last game of the series when Catcher Ray Herne made a wild throw in the 11th inning.

off and then returned to his Lombardi model, which is a bit of a tree-trunk.

HEAT AFFECTS SLUGGERS

"It is so hot these days that the heaviest sluggers in the league are going to be badly affected," said Stengel.

"I will give you odds that you can take your 300 hitters in any of the last four innings on such a day with the temperature close to 100 and he will not hit one out of the park, even with a pitcher throwing them right across, easy like, so that the batter can get a hold of them.

"Condition doesn't matter these days. Along about the sixth inning a player is going to weaken badly and lose a lot of his strength.

"I've got these lighter bats to cut down the toll of the heat and they may help some of our boys during July and August."

Lou Fette and Syl Johnson have been nominated by Stengel and Doc Prothro as today's pitchers. Casey's unlimited confidence in Max West is beginning to show profit. West is rapidly giving signs of becoming a polished feller while driving in plenty of runs and hitting the ball a mighty wallop.

Sailor Bill Posedel has now won eight and lost five and the bargain basement chucker from Brooklyn is becoming the ace of the Stengel staff. Posedel got off to a rocky start but faced only 21 batters in the last seven innings.

ARNOVITCH HIT IN THIRD

Arnovitch got a single in the third, but was cut down by a double play. Brack got a single in the fifth, but was out trying to make second on it. Arnovitch, in 139 games last season, hit only 274.

He's now hitting 374, leading the N. L. The secret for a jump of 100 points in batting? Murrie doesn't know the answer to that one. Just seems he's hitting the ball proper, and usually a second-year man flunks badly.

Arnovitch got one for four in the series opener at N. L. Park, but had the B's garden moving back for three other powerful drives.

Today's game starts at 3 p. m. Saturday games at Fenway Park start at 2:30. The twin-bill tomorrow at 1:30—just to avoid confusion.

AS IT WAS IN '35. Manager Mickey Cochrane and Pitcher Tommy Bridges smack Goose Goslin joyously after Goose had driven Mickey home with run that gave Tigers world championship. Mickey tells of that series in today's article.

Detroit Fans Went Wild Over Flag

By MICKEY COCHRANE

In all my career in baseball, or in any sport for that matter, never had I experienced such excitement as that which turned Detroit into a city gone mad with delight the night we won that World's Championship.

Not since the early days of Cobb, back there long before Detroit was the great city it was in '35, had the Wolverine metropolis had a chance really to get hysterical over baseball.

Through the campaign of '34, when we got into the Series and lost out to the Cardinals in a heart-breaker, there had been growing signs of the madness which might come up if we ever won. It grew and grew in intensity as the Tigers swept through the '35 campaign. And then, when we defeated the Cubs it took off all at once, as I came home with that winning tally.

I do not believe anybody knows for certain today whether Goose Goslin ever touched first base. The hoards of wild fans were on the field before the ball bounced in the outfield, safely.

Players were carried from the field on shoulders of fans like conquering heroes.

Men, women, children, dogs and candy butchers vied with radio announcers, newspaper reporters and motion-picture stars to shake the hand that had shaken the world as far as Detroit was concerned. This hand was that of Goslin or Bridges.

EVERYBODY DAFFY

Frail, quiet, reserved and unused to display, Tommy shook most who knew him or that man from that afternoon than a baby-kissing politician passes out in three lifetimes.

The city was at once a madhouse without doors or bars and all the Mardi Gras tossed into one locality. People who had not spoken to one another for years threw their arms around necks of enemies and kissed and made up. Everybody was every other person's friend.

Street cars were stopped on their squeaky flat wheels, unable to move at even a snail's pace for hours through the downtown traffic. Hotel lobbies were harder to cross than the Maginot Line. Everybody was a baseball fan. Everybody was an intimate of all Tigers.

Even the newspapers went daffy. There were interviews with players, umpires, bat boys, wives of players and friends of players who knew the or that man when he was a rookie in Peoria.

There will be other World Series, of course, and other hysterical celebrations, but for sheer high tide and generosity I do not believe the '35 triumph of the Detroit Tigers will ever be duplicated.

GIFTS FOUR IN

Presents from everybody, from the chairmen of boards of automobile concerns down to the gate-men, were heaped on favorites. Tons and tons of gifts, expressing the esteem in which all the men were held, poured in from all directions—and kept coming for days.

I got everything from home-made cake and cigarette lighters to automobiles.

And what a far cry this cheer and wealth and acclaim was from that period of incubation at Dover, Delaware! From buses and uncultivated playing fields, to hero-worship, first-class passage, and diamond tiaras for the missus if you wanted them!

This is the road which baseball travels from bushes to pinacole.

Today, one hundred years after its so-called invention, baseball is a career which finds college men vying with the boys from the sandlots. The reasons are obvious.

There are opportunities in baseball today, as there were ten, twenty, forty years ago. These chances are just as good today as in the Golden Age of sports when I broke into the game.

Disillusioning experiences will come, but they must be surmounted in baseball as in any other pursuit. Remember that even Babe Ruth, when he started in, wasn't the finished player he became after years of experience.

It took the Babe a long time to reach that incredible string of home runs. In fact, he'd been in baseball 14 seasons before he reached his peak.

Keep swinging. That's the answer.

FRISCH AND HUBBELL

Keep your eyes and ears open and your mouth shut.

Make a mental note of everything you see. And never forget anything: the stance of a batter, the movements of a pitcher, the ball a hitter takes.

Frankie Frisch, over a long period one of the brightest stars of the National League, was telling a story about Carl Hubbell, as great a competitor as he was a pitcher.

Frisch told how he'd once had Hubbell throw him a screwball with the bases "drunk" and none out. Frankie deposited Hubbell's great curve against the Polo Grounds fence for a triple.

"You know," Frankie said, "I hit against Carl for a long time after that knock, but so many times afterward as I hit against him I never again saw a screwball. He threw me everything but the pitch I laid against the fence!"

And that is the story of successful baseball.

Watch everything and try to avoid making the same mistakes twice!

TORONTO, July 8 (AP)—Toronto Baseball Club officials announced that Ted Petoskey, outfielder, had been sold to the Toledo Mud Hens of the American Association.

Rainey Thinks Well of Talent

HOUSTON, Tex., July 8 (AP)—Pitcher Homer F. Rainey took time out at the end of the 1919 Texas League baseball season to see what he could do in a new line—educational work.

He did right well. He's president of the University of Texas now. But he still is on the Houston club's voluntary retired list.

Fred Ankenman, Houston club president, received a letter from Dr. Rainey, offering to make the retirement permanent if he receives 20 years back pay and other league club waive on his services. Ankenman will give Rainey his official release in a few days, he said.

Wilson Offers Boston Pal in 8th

By DAVE WILSON

(Selections for fast track)

BEST BET—BOSTON PAL, 8TH RACE

R. A. Coward's consistent Boston Pal, necked out by Xavier after losing acres of ground to secure clear sailing, figures to atone at the expense of weaker rivals opposing him in today's eighth race at Suffolk Downs.

No safer hazard looms forth on the classy card than the veteran son of Bostonian.

FIRST RACE

Count Rae, My Gracious, Powers Gouard

COUNT RAE closed a tremendous gap to finish second in the recent sprint won by Peen, and this extended route should prove right to his measure. MY GRACIOUS and POWERS GOUARD rate as named.

SECOND RACE

Elyse, Time to Go, Light Brook

ELYSE has been especially pointed for this race, and I can only staid along. TIME TO GO performed as if light when bel on the other day. LIGHT BROOK is a possibility.

THIRD RACE

Moralist, Almas, Mattapony

MORALIST gets the best figure on his recent fourth to Brown Marvel. ALMAS shapes up only slightly better than MATTAPONY.

FOURTH RACE

Sun Phares, Sun Phares, Pass Out, SUN PATTY and SUN PHARES, coupled as the W. S. Kilmer entry, were both recent winners.

PASS OUT, on best race, figures close and looms as the only danger.

FIFTH RACE

Peter Argo, Sirasla, Pitt Terrier

PETER ARGO, an easy winner in the mud last trip, is easily the class. SIRASLA and PIT TERRIER, the W. C. Stroube entry, both get high figures.

SIXTH RACE

Farscent, Wise Lady, Hostility

PARSCOUT, on her good Delaware race, holds a royal chance. WISE LADY and HOSTILITY, the Barker and Wheatley entry, figure as named.

SEVENTH RACE

Alarming, Brandon Prince, Mohcap

ALARMING is descending the claiming ladder. BRANDON PRINCE is consistent and danger.
